trader who wishes to buy either my material, labour or the produce of labour, ought, chases in the bheapest market. Although self-interest leads individual traders Telegraph Station Bolinao a smart shock of most invariably conform to this principle, earthquake was felt between 5a and 6a most corporate pations have set above it the principle that native industries must be encouraged and that the cheap articles of foreigners must be burdened with dues to bring their price up to or beyond that of home-made articles. England, almost alone among the nations of the world, has refused to adopt this so-called protectionist policy, a policy the inevitable result of which is to make the inhabitants of the 'protected' state pay dearly for articles which they can manufacture only at great expense, while the articles they can y make ere restricted in their abroad. While, however, we think that England does right, even surrounded by protectionist rivals, to adhere to free trade principles, we do not think that this gene-

MEMOR FOR PO MORROW | room policy ought to be stretched to the extent of injuring her own pitizens and her own lodustries. The desire to encourage native industries is very laudable, and it is but right that the first care of every country should be for its own trade. Although it is a doubtful form of encouragement to exclude foreign goods, any Government who sent orders abroad which could be executed as well, or even very nearly as well, at home would beiray the trust imposed in it and would be noting against the true interests of the people. Most of the Governments of Europe are inclined to err in the other extreme. Germany not only constructs her own ironclads but now forbide the steamship companies she subsidiacs to order steamers from a foreign country. France takes up the same position. No Government order is sent abroad which can by any means be executed at home, and none of her men-o -war or subsidised steamships would dock in a foreign port if a convenient French port were anywhere near. How different the practice of England, at least in this part of the world! The convenience of the officers of her ships is apparently of greater concern to her than the penny-wise-and-pound-foolish way she is nut above resorting to something very like sharp practice to save a few shillings and pence. In a moment of papie she discovers the necessity of having in Far Eastern Waters a large dry dock fit to contain the largest ironclad she is likely to send to this quarter of the world. She enters into negotiations with the Dock Company in Hongkong for the carrying out of this project, and concludes with them a pretty hard bargain. When the work of this large dock has got half way, some of her officials discover that there exists: a sand bank, or some sort of danger-we really forget what making any additional contribution to the expense, on the plans being altered, and leads the Company to enlarge the dock and spend about halfs million dollars in blasting a solid rock, which it was previously intended to avoid. A tariff of charges for docking and other work is made out, and British enterprise be hanged! Moral obli-

development of British industry. In Insurance Company, Ltd., to be sent the nature of it was -and in order to avoid the remote risk of one of her ships sustaining camage thereby she insists, without the Company undertakes that the dock shall be available for the ships of Her Majesty whenever they may wish to enter, After having put the Dock Company to such a large expense, saddled them with the crop any further than the above offer. What is generally regarded as a veritable white elephant, and led them to contract a unfavourably in the germination of seeds | debt which will for many years to come be in a tropical climate, over which we have a drag on the revenue, one would have no control. Among the causes of failure thought that the English Government would have considered itself morally bound to give all its docking to those who had spent so much on its behalf. But no. Japan is such a delightful country, and the Japanese are such a kind, obsequious, follows may be too wet, which will cause obliging people that it would be cruel to the seed to rot; or it may be too hot and take away patronage from them. So the dry, which destroys the germ before i Audacious, before she went home, was overshows itself. The soil may also be unhauled at Nagasaki, although the new dook favourable for the variety of seed planted. at Hongkong was ready to receive her, having already received two Chinese men-ofwar and since then other ships have been entrusted to the same tender care. gations . - Governments and officials are not bound by such considerations. 'If the Compeny remonstrates we'll ask them to reduce their tariff, and as they will not likely be willing to break the bargain we made with them, their refusal will be a capital excuse for sending our ships to the Japanese, who have been so kind as to reduce their rates a little below the tariff, to cut out the Britishers, and who are willing to let us do pretty much what we like, while our unbanding countrymen insist on the fulfilment of our contracts. Such seem to be the sentiments of those who are responsible for the gontrul of our menof war on this station. And they are apparently consistently carrying out this policy. for we read the other day that the Leander was expected at Nagasaki in a few days to dock. She might easily have come down to Hongkong, but the navel authorities do not think they are under any obligation to support British anterprise, even although they are morally inbebted to that enterprise to the extent of half a million dollars. The Dock Company must look to Chinese, Spanish and possibly American ment of war for a small return for the money expended in the construction of the large Admiralty Dock. Why the Company should tamely allow themselves to be treated in this fashion, we BONGKONG, RATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1889 do not know. They have made some feeble profests locally, we believe, but that is of no It is a sound commercial principle that a avail. We doubt also whether it would do much good to appeal to the Admiral on the station, as he has a great deal of work to do. other things being equal, to make his pur having in addition to his ordinary duties; numerous diplomatic, social and family responsibilities. It is at Floron that their just claims must be made good. The Admiralty authorities can be roused through Parliament or even by a vigorous protest in any of the leading London journals. Public feeling on such matters is now so strong that the Company have only to make their case well known in order to force redress. They have not only a moral but almost a legal claim against the Admiralty. Had any two private firms been similarly conditioned, we might have heard long ere this of an action for damage on account of non-fulfilment of contract. We hope the Dock directors will some day awake to their duty in this respect, and that they will : take some vigorous action, materd of continuing the laiser faire policy which seems to have been hitherto pursued.

DIVINE SERVICE FOR SHAMEN .- On Sunday morning, between 9 and 10.30 o'clock, the steam launch carrying the Bethel flag will call alongside any vessel hoisting code pennant C., to convey men ashore to Il a. m. service at St. Peter's Seamen's Church returning about 12.30.

THE congregation of Union Church will meet to-morrow in the City Hall Theatre for public worship, and at the evening service Miss Ackerman, of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of America, will preach, instead of Rev. G. H. Bondfield. The services will be at 11 a.m. and 7.80 p.m.

A MAN named Tseng A Fong was before Mr Robinson in the Police Court to-day on a charge of obtaining jewellery and money on false pretences. It appears that he had called on the wife of a silk-dealer in Macao the other day and told her that her husband, who had gone to Hongkong on busimeas, had been arrested there, and that a matter of $40 was wanted for his release, The anxious wife made up her mind to come to Hongkong and look after the mat ter herself, but on arriving here, accompanied by the prisoner, she was informed by him that her husband was in irons on board a certain vessel, and she, being small-footed woman, did not feel herself equal to the exertion of going or board ship, and therefore gave the prisoner some jewellery and a $5-note. to obtain her husband's release. She afterwards discovered through a friend of her husband that the prisoper's atory was entirely false, and the police were informed of the matter at once. The prisoner admitted receiving the jewellery and money, but said it was because the complainant's husband had fleeced him of $50, by stating that he could make a $50 mote turn into one for $'00 by placing it in a jar and leaving it there for a certain length of time, at the end of which time the pricoper found that his bill had changed into a quantity of stones and rice. ever, will be Osbert Chadwick's report. That as I have already said my say in the matter of the Peak Drainage and its necessary adjunct of Water Supply, your readers will auderstand that my views cannot run parallel with those expressed (if not formed) by the Governor.

That perhaps your term 'the height of impertinence,' as applied to the expressions of His Excellency, was a little ambiguous if not too atrong.

That if you merely meant to convey the impression that the Governor's words were not particularly portinent to the discussion, you certainly were not far out, for I have seldom acen a solemn pices of semi-official intercourse gone through with a speller amount of net

That it perhaps never entered into the mind of His Excellency to introduce manner or expressions his anything approaching to rudeness, or anything savouring of the audacious flavouring now so often given to the meaning of the word "impertinence."

That, all the same, the result upon the public mind of the Colony is much the same-with the one hand the Governor reminds the residents that he is, or thinks he is, an autocrat; with the other he offers a something which bears the questionable shape of Home Rule so far as bungled drainage and deficient water supply are concerned.

That no mention was made of how the Peak Municipal Council was to pay its way, to purify its legacy of avil-small ing drains, or to meet the requirements for a water supply.

That this unfortunate circumstance or condition of things is perhaps owing more to the entire absence of continuity in the management of public affairs in this Colony, than to any malign influences amongst official departments.

That Sir Richard MacDonnell (of hoppy memory) would have caused residents to stare had he intimated that people who chose to walk by the Victoria Gap, or to pitch their tents on the Peak levels, had -to pay for the Gap Police Station, or for the roads and the tolegraph lines opened or set up across the hills.

That the question should at once be set at rest whether a suburb that gets a system of dramage, does or does not require that a supply of water be given to it.

That the precise sum of the contribution to rates necessary to establish a claim for the privileges of Police protection, light, and pure water-without mentioning impure drains-should now be laid down, so that residents in all growing anburber may see their way clearly before them.

That payment of premium for land is, truly enough, the purchaser's affair and the reasonable fulfilment of all obligations manally undertaken by Imperial or Municipal authorities, by those who receive such money for land, is the Governor's affair.

THE BLOCK SYSTEM IN CUINA.

still some things in which this ancient Chinese State can give them points. Nowhere in the world has the block system, whether applied to railway organization or to any other matter of public utility, been brought to such absolute perfection; and the automatic air brakes in operation in China leave such contrivances as the Westinghouse patent far behind. It is not yet two months since in our espacity of chronicler of passing events, we were in position to report that the railway movement was in full buom ; that the execution of the earnest deire of the Throne to intersect the country with railways had been entrusted to prominent men, and that the work might be expected to proceed with all convenient despatch. At the same time we pointed out that the sequiescence of experienced officials in the entrusting of the undertaking to o cials of no experience was an ominous sign; while the fact of the particular line of railway, ordered to be constructed being neither a comnieroial nor a strategical line boded only economical disaster to the enterprise. That was on the 7th of September; and almost immediately thereafter the symptoms of opposition began to show themselves, and had gathered such consistency before the end of the month that the whole scheme put forward with so much literary pomp by Chang Chihitung had been definitively put working of Chinese political machinery. active promoters of railway extension in China are limited to the Imperial family and the Viceroy Li, with one or two other individuals such as Lin Ming-chuan, while the official hierarchy in all its reticulations from the highest to the lowest is a body opposed to it; the greater part, passively, but a atrung aection among them actively opposed. For the time being this opposition is insurmountable. The Empress Downger and the Seventh Prince have succumbed to it, and the Viceroy Li, finding himself unsupported has no choice but to abandon for the present the whole railway scheme, the part of it which he favoured as well as that of which, for so id reasons, he dis approved, - until the whirligig of time shall bring about the requisite change in the current of official opinion. This is indeed a melancholy collapse of the hopes so recently aroused of a new progressive era for China, but the fact unfortunately admits of

If we try to seek out the reasons why the nation represented by the body of its officials: has come to such a retrograde decision the task is not an easy one. It is safe, however, to make the general atatemont that the opposition has not been exercited against railways on their proper merits. The rulers and leaders of opinion are for the most part fully convinced of the utility of railways for military, commercial, and industrial purposes; and if the ques tion could be isolated from all party and personal considerations there can hardly be a doubt that means wou'd be found to introduce the iron road. A POEM ON THE DEVIL. Mon don't believe in a devil new, as their fathers used to do They've forced the door of the "broadest max blesd to let his Majesty through, There in't a print of his cloven foot or fiery dart from his boly. To be found it with or his to-day, for the world has voted it so. But who is mixing the fatal draught that palsies heart and brain. And loads the bier of each, pussing your Who blights the bloom of the land to-day with the fiery breath of hell! If the devil isu't and never was, won't digs the pits for his feet ? cottog

Who does the stops of the toiling saint and Who sows the tares on othe fields of time. wherever God sows His wheat The devil is Voted not to be and of contse But who is doing the kind of work that the devil atone should do ! We attitud that he does not go about as Folding lion now and the state of the state.

But whom shall we hold responsible for the overlasting row To be heard in home, in church and State, to the earth's remotest bound. If the davil, by a unanimous vote, is nowhere to be found?

Won't somebody step to the front forthwith, and make his bow and show How the frauds and orimes of a single day spring up? We want to know. . The devil was fairly voted out, and course the devil's gone :
